DELLCO CREATIVE METAL WORKS

Don Dell, owner of DellCo, began his career a quarter of a century ago as a young roof and gutter guy on the west coast. Don found himself fascinated with the custom metal work seen on many homes and commercial properties where he worked.

Someone gave him an opportunity to do a custom metal project on his own. The client and contractor expressed how completely pleased they were with the design and fit. Don told his boss, "I'm not doing gutters anymore." And he has been doing custom metal work ever since.

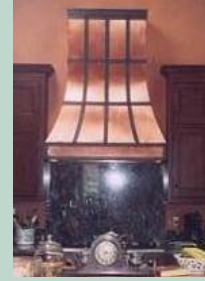

Some of Don's notable custom work can be seen on the home of the founder of ONeal Surf Boards, a building on the Stanford campus, and one of the homes of the creator of McAfee.
